Would you buy from this store?

A convincing storefront can hide a reason to pause.

Local demonstration store

A warning with a reason

Actual output from a labelled local simulation

Sensitive fields on an unencrypted page

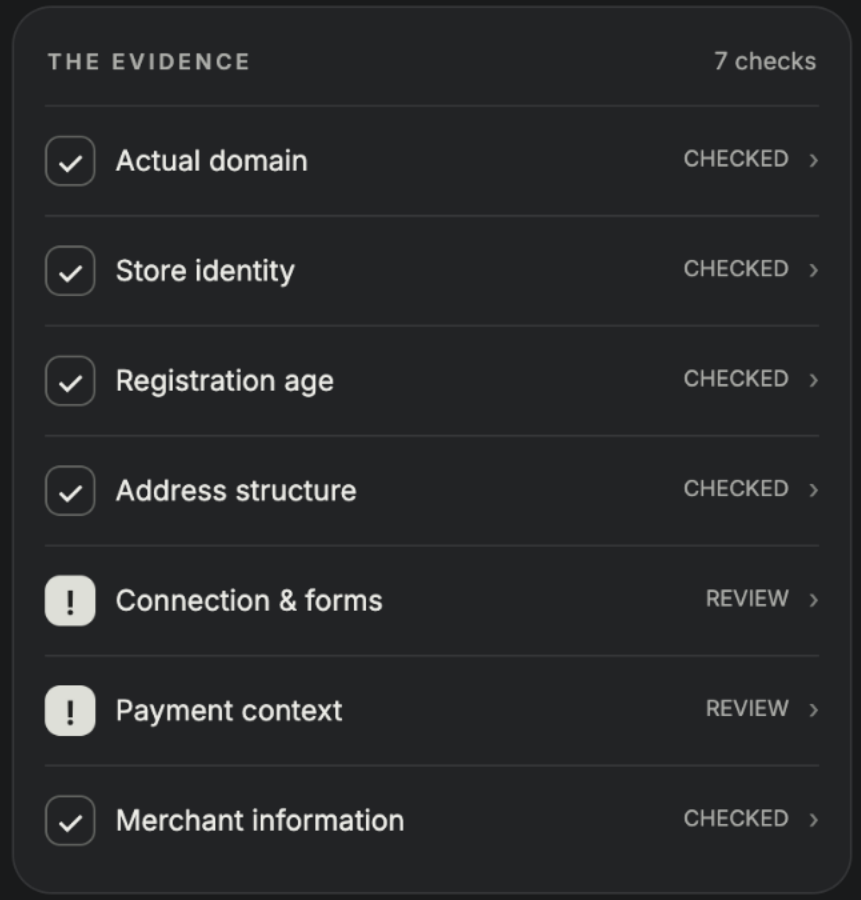

Meadow flags the observed danger and explains why it matters.

The decision stays with the shopper.

A check that fits how people shop

Automatic inspection while browsing.
One click to read the reasons.

No account. No AI model.
Uncertainty stays visible.

Seven focused checks

The checkout test

What changes when the payment form appears?

Live in Chrome

Then a new shop: does newness alone trigger high risk?

meadow

A little clarity.
Before you buy.

A first check for an unfamiliar store,
with reasons you can understand.

First-pass screening. No guarantee of legitimacy or delivery.